

It's traditional for Sin City cabbies to take the long highway route to Strip hotels from the airport. A quicker street route takes 10 minutes and costs $25. The money-making highway robbery ride takes 25 minutes and costs a sinful $50.

So, on your next Vegas venture by air, consider renting a car at the airport. Parking is free at hotels, and rental cars are from $15 per day. While in the city, if you'll be visiting other hotels, Hoover Dam and nearby desert sites, it's smart to have a rental car. It's cheaper and more convenient to drive instead of cabbing it expensively everywhere, especially to and from the airport.
