

Disney cruise ship Magic awaits you and grandkids

If you're planning to ride the ocean waves, consider signing up for a Disney Cruise. Now, wait a minute before you turn your nose up. You'll say you don't want to be stuck with little rugrats getting underfoot everywhere you go. However, when you find out what Disney offers for both kids and adults, you may change your senior mind.

First of all, on many Disney cruises, kids sail free! That means you can take those darling grandkids at no extra cost, and share the fun while their parents get a week or two of relief at home. Isn't that worth consideration for looking into a Disney cruise?

As with other major cruise lines, Disney's modern and luxurious ships visit many world destinations in the Mediterranean, South America, Europe, Bahamas, Alaska and the Mexican Riviera. Although the Disney theme everywhere is designed for kids, their cruise ships cater to people of all ages.

Disney cruises promote the theme: Fun for the Whole Family. That means seniors can join in and, along with their sailing-for-free grandkids, have a great time. Among other features, all Disney cruise ships have great restaurants, nursery and babysitting services, Broadway-style theater entertainment, first-run movies and scores of other kid-friendly activities.

For adults only, there's a special restaurant, three nightclubs, special midnight parties, private spas and pools, wine-tasting, excursions, snorkeling, parasailing and many other kid-free activities.
