

Hotel boss Roger Bigelow predicts he'll have a Hindenberg-ish of resort suspended way up there in the sky within just a few years. The first question that may come to mind for horny senior flyers may be: Does each inflatable hotel room come with an inflatable doll?

Just how safe could such a floating hostelry be way, way up there? Imagine waking up one morning in your room, stretching, yawning and forgetting you're in the clouds. Then you say: I'm stepping outside for just a breath of fresh airrrrrrrrrrr....
