

In your travel bag, always carry a small plastic slanted doorstop. When you lock yourself into your hotel room at night or other time when you need privacy, wedge it securely under the inside bottom of the door. It provides maximum safety beyond the internal chain or external locks that could be forced open from the hallway.